

The Low Anthem

The Low Anthem is an indie-folk band based in Providence, Rhode Island. The group self-recorded and released its first studio album, titled What the Crow Brings. Its third studio album, Oh My God, Charlie Darwin, was received with exceptional acclaim, which led to a re-release with Nonesuch Records and Bella Union. The group toured extensively throughout Europe and the United States during the album cycle, and went on to create its next album, Smart Flesh, released in 2011.

In 2016, The Low Anthem signed with Washington Square Music (Razor & Tie), under which they released their most recent album, eyeland. Their next album is scheduled to be released and supported with a tour in early 2018.
